

This is the Foundation Combined version — Higher Tier and Separate-only content removed.

Genetic engineering involves inserting a gene from one organism into another, allowing the recipient organism to produce a protein it could not make before.